ESMA open call for expressions of interest for the renewal of the Consultive Working Group of Advisers for ESMA's Committee for Economic and Markets Analysis

The European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA) announced an open call for expressions of interest, for the renewal of the two-year term of the current Group of Economic Advisers ('GEA') for ESMA's Committee for Economic and Markets Analysis ('CEMA'), for the period December 2018-December 2020.

The GEA, which will not exceed 18 members in total, will be composed of individuals representing as balanced a proportion as possible of the relevant areas of expertise in the field of financial stability, research on financial markets or the financial sector, risk surveillance on an aggregate level as well as general economic research or analysis related to financial markets (areas covered by CEMA). The composition of the group seeks to ensure to the extent possible, an appropriate geographical and gender balance from across the European Union and a balanced representation of the following types of stakeholders: a. financial market participants / financial services' intermediaries / financial consumer representatives and b. academics.

All the documents and the relevant extracts from the procedures for participation, are available at this link below:
