

ANNOUNCEMENT

As part of its participation in the annual international campaign Global Money Week 2022— aimed at raising awareness about the importance of financial education of young people – the Cyprus Securities and Exchange Commission (CySEC) announces that it will award the student from the University of Cyprus’ Faculty of Economics and Management with the best dissertation covering Financial/Monetary matters and Capital Markets. The student will be awarded within the 2021-2022 academic year.

With this initiative, implemented for the first time, CySEC aims to award finance students on an annual basis and on a wider scale.

CySEC’s ultimate goal is to encourage university students in Cyprus to choose to study and research issues pertaining to the subjects which coincide with the responsibilities and work of CySEC, and the sector that it supervises. At the same time, the award aims to promote financial education and strengthen actions to alleviate financial illiteracy.

More information on Global Money Week is available here.

Nicosia, 23 March 2022